OCEAN

RIVER

dolphins escorted us as sailed the shore where we first each other far from our searching for escape and solace waves crashed against beach and our future ran free like on the pull of the tides that swiftly toward us

we found
home where the water flowed

spent weekends searching and the perfect sanctuary to call for the waning time we would be surrounded by beauty of sunsets and the lapping against rocks as you slowly away from this world
